Your 2023-2024 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) has determined that you have an unusual enrollment history while receiving Federal Student Aid. An unusual enrollment history is defined as having attended multiple institutions in the past four award years. If, upon review of your academic records, it is determined that you did not earn academic credit at one or more of your previously attended institutions, you will need to complete step #3 of this form. In this circumstance, our office is unable to award federal Title IV funding until we have received an explanation of your circumstances during the semester(s) in which you did not earn credit.
